

International Seminar on Private Regulation and New Fields of Regulation

Central University of Finance and Economics

Time: June 1, 2017 2:00 - 5:30 pm
Location: Academy Hall Room 606
CUFE Xueyuan Road Campus

- Regulatory pluralism
- Private regulation
- Self regulation
- International cooperative regulation
- New field of government regulation

At present, the economic and social development has entered a new period in China. In the process towards democracy and rule of law, it is essential that government must make its own progress, and also use private regulation.

The seminar will focus on how to define the scope of market freedom and administrative regulation, to discuss the theories on self-regulation, co-regulation and governmental regulation, e.g. how to integrate private regulation into public governance, how industry associations can participate in the regulatory process.

This seminar will be jointly organized by Law School of Central University of Finance and Economics, in collaboration with Maastricht European Institute for Transnational Legal Research (METRO) and Law and Economics department at University of Groningen.
